Wall force is applied during time integration; material centers are never clamped