
Every cell contributes; hexagons summarize density, not random point selection. W0 normals use large maximum values (m